

MARSHALL NOTIFIED OF HIS NOMINATION

INDIANA'S GOVERNOR GIVEN OFFICIAL NOTICE OF HIS CANDIDACY ON DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

ROOSEVELT IS PLAYED

Judge Alton B. Parker in Notification Speech Spares No Words in Estimate of His Former Opponent.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 20.—Governor Thomas R. Marshall was today officially notified that he is the running mate of Governor Woodrow Wilson as the head of the democratic ticket in the coming campaign. Judge Alton B. Parker of New York, who was presidential candidate of the party in 1904 and who notified the Indiana executive of his nomination arrived yesterday.

Arrangements were made to hold the speeches in the open if the weather permits, but Tomlinson Hall has been engaged for use in case of rain. Thomas T. Taggart, committee chairman of Indiana, has invited the speakers to his hotel for luncheon. An auto parade through the downtown streets will follow the luncheon. Another auto ride for the visitors will be the program after the speeches, after which Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will give a reception.

Mr. Taggart has been made master of ceremonies and introduced Judge Parker, who as chairman of the committee, delivered the notification address. Judge Alton B. Parker of New York delivered the address in this city today notifying Governor Thomas R. Marshall of his nomination for vice president at the democratic national convention.

The judge said in part: "The faithful friends of democracy, proud of the history of their party covering half a century of federal administration, welcome also the opportunity to substitute practice for promise. Indeed they seized it by the nomination of Wilson and Marshall. Seized it by so firm a grip that it cannot be loosened—aye, either by the hope of republicanism or by leading people who have not as yet discovered that their leaders battle is waged for himself, not for the lord."

"But his country's pretext is with the hope that he will thus secure the aid of lords, hosts, for this term contrary to the unwritten law of this country and in disregard of his pledge to the people to obey that law. The method by which the democratic convention seized the opportunity is so simple and straightforward that it at once created confidence and aroused enthusiasm."

"Then the nomination of the endemics respectively of N. J. and Ind., show that they know how to create and apply the needed governmental remedies and whose lives give abundant surety that the pledge of the party as their own comes to the people, will be faithfully kept."

Mr. Parker picked his text from Governor Wilson's speech where he considered the partnership between government and privilege. His method of treatment was to deliver, first, the fact of the partnership and the resulting public interest; second, that the republican party was solely responsible for the inauguration of the partnership relative to strengthening the tariff and combating the restraint trade and preventing competition as illustrations. Third, that neither the republican nor the progressive parties could break up the partnership. Fourth, that the Democratic party could be relied upon to accomplish results.

The consideration which the republican party received for the public betrayal was not confined to large campaign contributions. In addition he said that the republican party supported the captains of industry which covered a large sphere of influence in both parties, and the ability to persuade the vast armies of employees that their interest were involved in the success of the party which favored the industry.

Judge Parker contended that relief could come only from the action of Marshall and Wilson and the Democratic party, which he followed by the offering of reasons which he said negated all possible relief from either the republican or progressive parties.

Of the latter he said in part: "Its creator and nominee for president occupied that office for about seven and a half years but during that time he could not be persuaded to say a single word in favor of lifting from the people the burden of the tariff rates. True, he admitted that certain interests have been improperly favored by able protection."

"He declared himself in favor of disrupting the old log rolling method of tariff making and advocating the 'tariff commission' a wholly different method from the old tariff board. It is impossible to raise from a careful reading of his tariff discussion without being convinced that he is a 'stand patter' now, as he was when president. Certainly, only a very stupid man would expect him to curb the trusts. Seven of all the combined interests when he was out of office were created when he was president. Their creators had confidence in him, surely, and it is just to say that it was not misplaced."

Wilson Sends Message.

Union Officials and Street Car Magnates Hold Another Conference on Situation Today.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Union leaders and officials of the surface railway lines of Chicago held another conference with Mayor Harrison today in an effort to avert a street car strike. Prospects of an amicable settlement seemed bright. Employees of the elevated lines voted overwhelmingly in favor of striking, according to reports of the balloting early today.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 20.—When the dock cleared in the police court today for the hearing of the arraignment of the eighteen aldermen charged with having announced their willingness to accept bribes in return for municipal favors to be given the Wabash railroad, it was expected that the prosecuting attorney would commence the cases of the nine aldermen first arrested on alleged receipt of bribe money. It was understood that the nine other cases probably will be passed over temporarily.

UNALLOTTED ISLANDS ARE SECURED FOR THE STATE.

Forester Griffith Pleaded at Action of Congress Allowing Lands to State for Forestry Purposes.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 20.—State Forester E. A. Griffith has received with great measure of satisfaction the news from Washington that the senate has finally passed the Morse bill ceding to the state of Wisconsin for forestry purposes all the unallotted islands in the lakes at the headwaters of the Wisconsin river, principally in Vilas and Oneida counties. By a count made by the forestry board these islands number 216. The board expects to receive from Washington at an early date a list of the islands not patented. The islands to come under the state's domain will be conserved for the benefit of the public and further despoliation prevented. It is provided that in the event they are used for other purposes than those specified in the bill, they shall revert to the United States.

SCHEPPS TELLS HIS STORY TO THE GRAND JURY THIS MORNING

Repeats "Bald" Jack Rose's Statement Relatively To The Men Higher Up In New York Scandal.

New York, Aug. 20.—Sam Schepps was again the central figure in the Rosenthal murder case today when he appeared before the grand jury prepared to repeat the story he told district attorney Whitman in which he corroborated in many essential details the confession of "Bald Jack" Rose implicating police lieutenant Becker in the killing of the east side gambler.

It was this story of Schepps which Mr. Whitman desired the grand jury to hear before returning further indictments in the Rosenthal case. The district attorney was clearly confident that before tonight's indictments would be returned against seven persons.

Those to be indicted are said to be Rosenzweig, (Lefty) Louis, Horowitz (Gib-the-Blood), Cirofici (Dago Frank), and Muller (Whitey Lewis), the four alleged murderers; Jack Sullivan and William Shapiro, and Lieutenant Becker on a superceding indictment.

Schepps told the district attorney that he talked with Lieut. Becker a few hours before Rosenthal was shot and with others went out to get an affidavit from Dora Gilbert, the divorced wife of Rosenthal. Schepps then told of the ride up town the night of the killing, of gathering the gun men, and of how he and Rose waited for the news of Rosenthal's death.

It was after the murder was committed that Schepps played his most important part in the Rosenthal affair. That was as a go-between for Lieut. Becker and the panic-stricken Rose, who was hiding in an uptown apartment house. Schepps said he made several visits to Becker to consult with him as to what course Rose should pursue. Becker he said advised Rose to remain in hiding, but Rose was thoroughly frightened and wanted to give himself up.

Schepps said officials who have information regarding Lieut. Becker's accounts have been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury. A blanket indictment charging murder in the first degree was returned by the grand jury this afternoon against Police Lieutenant Becker and four gangsters in connection with the murder of Herman Rosenthal. The gangsters indicted are: Lefty Louis, Whitey Lewis, Dago Frank and Gib-the-Blood.

HEAVY HAIL STORM DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Corn is Riddled and Windows Broken in Homes at Johnstown as Result of Storm Last Night.

Johnstown, Aug. 20.—A severe hail storm which swept over the middle of this township about midnight last night completely riddled the corn crop and damaged many houses by breaking window panes. The hail storm lasted for ten or fifteen minutes and was accompanied by severe thunder and lightning. The hail was followed by a wind but all the damage done was accomplished by the hail stones which were unusually large. The leaves were stripped from the corn stalks and the crop in the path of the storm will be an utter failure.

At the Leslie Godfrey farm all of the window panes on the south side of the house were broken. Similar damage was reported at the homes of William Koppelm, Frank Cox, Frank Godfrey and Wayne Wilbur. Dr. Brown of Janesville was called this morning to attend a valuable colt owned by Wayne Wilbur which had been badly cut in the wire fence last night. The animal had evidently been frightened by the storm.

They secured a considerable amount of money in this way and afterwards broke into and demolished a pawn shop from which they stole $10,000. The pirates then kidnapped the government collector of taxes and threatened to carry off a number of wealthy Chinese who, however, ransomed themselves. The European inhabitants escaped unhurt.

ENLIVENED CONGRESS BY WORDY DISPUTE

President Taft Will Probably Sign the Panama Measure When it is Presented.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Representative Rainey of Illinois, a democrat and Representative Austin of Tennessee, a republican fought a wordy battle in the house today and exchanged bitter personalities. Each had 54 minutes allotted under a special rule. Mr. Rainey charged Mr. Austin was personally interested in water power legislation. That he was one of the incorporators of a big company in the vicinity of Knoxville, Tenn., to be benefited by pending legislation and that "a well trodden trail" led from the congressional office of Mr. Austin to the offices to the so-called water power trust.

The incident was a sequel of a recent exchange of personalities between members when Mr. Rainey objected to certain bills introduced by Mr. Austin retaliated by calling Mr. Rainey a dreamer and a demagogue. President Taft today held a brief conference with A. Mitchell Innes, charged affairs of the British embassy who recently presented his government's protest against certain features of the pending Panama canal bill.

Mr. Innes said he had not lodged any further protest against the bill and had not heard the views of his foreign offices on the joint resolution suggested by President Taft to permit foreign nations to test the free toll clause in the United States courts.

Visitors who talked with President Taft today were inclined to believe he would sign the Panama bill if no assurances were given that the joint resolution explanation—that it was not passed to abrogate the Hay-Pauncefote treaty could be put through congress.

The president discussed the question of the bill's approval at the regular cabinet meeting today, the third session held this week on the bill. The senate inter-oceanic canal committee discussed the proposed resolution more than an hour today without action.

It was said a majority of the committee present expressed views to the effect that it was a useless proposal. Two or three favored recommending the resolution to the senate. Penrose of Pennsylvania, announced today that he would make a privileged statement in the senate tomorrow regarding D. Archibald of the Standard Oil Company.

The alleged correspondence has been made the basis of general charges that Senator Penrose accepted financial aid from Archibald about the time of the presidential campaign of 1904 and the further statement has been made that the money received was used in connection with that campaign when Theodore Roosevelt was elected.

While Mr. Penrose declined to say what his statement tomorrow would contain, it was intimated that financial operations in the national republican campaign of that year would be thoroughly discussed.

In every case thus far, however, the buildings have been improved in accordance with the superintendent's order.

EXPECT A DECISION ON BAGGAGE RATES

Express Rates and Parlor Car Fares Will Also Be Treated in Wisconsin Commission's Findings.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 20.—The three-fold investigation of baggage, parlor car and express rates by the Wisconsin railroad commission is practically concluded and Commissioner Halford Erickson said today that a decision in all three cases will be announced shortly. Claiming that the baggage rates in this state are excessive, the commercial traveling men some time ago petitioned the commission to direct the railroads to permit traveling men to carry the same amount of baggage as is allowed in Canada—300 pounds. The parlor-car rates in this state were increased over a year and a half ago by the railroads. The brief examination of reports of parlor car companies made at that time by the commission revealed that perhaps these rates were not excessive. In order to get at the basis of the complaint, the commission directed a detailed examination to be made of the rates charged passengers in this state. This is now nearly completed and the decision is expected in a few weeks.

For the past six weeks the commission has been attempting to unify its express rates, which it proposes to announce in a decision soon, with the new rates recently ordered by the interstate commerce commission. Statistical tables showing the rates on express fixed by the federal commission have been compiled by the state commission, but it is evident that in a number of cases at least the reductions to be made by the Wisconsin body will be somewhat below those fixed by the interstate commerce commission. It is now obvious that had the commission announced its findings in the express cases prior to the ruling by the interstate commerce commission, there would have been multitude of conflicting rates in force in this state. To unify the rates, at the same time giving the public the benefit of every reduction it is possible to make, is the work in which it is stated the commission is now engaged.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY OF DISCOVERY OF GOLD.

Deer Lodge, Mont., Aug. 20.—This being the fiftieth anniversary of the discovery of gold in Montana, the annual meeting of the Montana Pioneers, which opened here today for a session of three days, partakes of a double importance, as the commemoration of an interesting event in the history of the state and as a friendly reunion of the surviving pioneers who, in the early days of the present Commonwealth laid its foundation for its future greatness and prosperity. Deer Lodge played a rather important part in the early history of this state and many of the visiting pioneers at some time resided here during their early experiences. The citizens have arranged an elaborate program for the entertainment of the visitors.

FIGHT FOR GOVERNORSHIP OF GEORGIA NEARING END.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 20.—The Democrats of Georgia tomorrow will name a governor and other state officers, members of the judiciary and representatives in congress in primaries in which nomination in all cases is considered equivalent to election. Interest is confined almost wholly to the contest for the gubernatorial nomination, in which the candidates are John M. Slaton of Atlanta, Joe Hill Hall of Macon and Hooper Alexander of DeKalb county. A number of the present state officers have no opposition for re-nomination. The majority of the present congressmen likewise will be re-nominated. A preliminary vote is to be taken for the choice of a United States senator, but as Senator Bacon is assured of re-election the voting will be purely of a perfunctory character.

PEOPLE PAID BILLS FOR EXPERIMENT BY TAX COMMISSIONERS

Advise to Income Assessors to "Get the Money" Was Necessary to Pay Increased Cost of Assessment.

Madison, Aug. 20.—The income tax will cost approximately $30,000 more than was annual paid to the old supervisors of assessments who are succeeded by the income assessors. Official figures which have just been compiled show the cost of administering the law in every detail in the state and districts for the first six months. It shows an expenditure of $10,427 for the main office and $38,668 for all of the district offices, expenses, and salaries. This makes a total of $49,095. The tax commission claims that the expense of administering the law for the first six months is at least 20 per cent greater than for the remainder of the year. The highest estimate for administering the law during the first year is fixed at $85,000. To do only part of this work accountants spent $55,000 to pay supervisors of assessment. This will leave a net annual outlay of about $30,000 for enforcing the income tax law.

THE STORY OF THE SEA ANEMONE AND THE CRAB.

By J. R. HAMILTON

Former Advertising Manager of Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

Down around Monterey Bay, the Sea Anemones are almost as thick as the scientists who come to study them. Now, for the benefit of those who have not spent four years in laboratory cutting little animals into thin slices to study under a microscope, let it be said here that a sea anemone is a cross between a beautiful plant and a hungry animal and was created for the sole purpose of baffling young scientists and entertaining older ones.

It is about as big as your fist. It lives under water attached to a rock. It lies innocently open like a great chrysanthemum—not only presenting its stomach, instead of its heart to the world, but the inside of its stomach at that. When any animal touches it it closes up around that animal and immediately digests him.

Recently two scientists were watching a young crab wandering aimlessly about above a little garden of sea anemones. Like all crabs and many people, he was walking backward and thinking of something else, when he happened to step on the petals of this innocent flower. Instantly this innocent flower grabbed him and began closing its doors. Crabby put up a valiant fight—he hit out with every leg—he performed surgical marvels with his scissor claws but it was of no use. The anemone closed over him and began covering him with a slimy digestive fluid, which it uses as a sauce on all its food.

When Science, which for once had found a heart, finally released the little crab, he crawled weakly up on the rocks and gave fervent thanks, like Jonah, for his deliverance.

The point to be illustrated is that in all cities there are scores of stores like the sea anemone, which are merely fastened to the street. It is hard to tell just why and what they are. They do not advertise—they do not stand for anything. They are composed principally of a hungry stomach and you do not know whether they are fish, fowl or good red herring. From the outside they look as beautiful as a flower. When you get inside they close up on you like a rapacious animal and when you get out again—if you ever do get out—you are inclined like Jonah and the crab to give thanks for your deliverance.

There is only one thing to do in business and that is to go to the stores you know—to the stores that place themselves on record by advertising what they are.

The stores that do not advertise are like the flowers in the sea; they may be very beautiful and perfectly all right, and then again they may turn out to be merely a bunch of hungry tentacles that will close up on you, cover you with a slimy praise and then proceed to digest you clear down to the lining of your pocket-book.

THE CLEAN GROCERY.

Not Much Consequence.

Two fishermen named Jeffs living near each other, had met with misfortune, one having lost his wife and the other his boat. A lady visitor called on the one who had lost his boat, thinking it was the one who had lost his wife, and the following conversation ensued: "Good morning, Mr. Jeffs, I am sorry to hear of your sad loss." "Oh, it ain't of much consequence, mum; she wasn't up to much." "Dear me, you don't say so!" "Ay, she was a rickety old crook. When I went out with her I was always in danger of my life." "Indeed!" "I offered her to my mate only last week, but he wouldn't have her; but I have had my eye on another for some time now, and—" But the old lady could stand no more of the old man's innocent denunciation of the weaker sex, and hurriedly took her departure.

FORMER RESIDENT IN LEGAL ENTANGLEMENT

Charles Carpenter of Beloit Charged With Violating the State Automobile Laws.

According to the Beloit News Charles Carpenter, former owner of the Railroad hotel in this city and now proprietor of the Grand Hotel, Beloit, was taken into court in Beloit last Saturday on complaint of Will Weirick for alleged violation of the state automobile laws.

The incident that led to the complaint occurred on the river road about 6 o'clock Friday evening as the two parties were returning from the races at Janesville.

Mr. Weirick with a party were coming down the river road in the Weirick machine with the Carpenter party behind them in a big 60 horse power Mitchell.

Mr. Carpenter claims he was following the Weirick machine at 21 miles an hour and when they arrived at the Town Line road they tooted their horn and made an effort to pass but Weirick speeded up and the Carpenter machine brushed up against the Weirick auto and it was claimed that the Weirick machine was damaged.

Carpenter pleaded not guilty to the charge pressed against him and his preliminary hearing was set for tomorrow morning.

The defendant has employed Attorney Dougherty of Janesville, to defend him.

ORGAN RECITAL WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

Newly Installed Organ At Norwegian Lutheran Church, Edgerton Used For First Time Last Night.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Edgerton, Aug. 20.—Last night the Norwegian Lutheran church was packed to the doors by an eager audience which gathered to listen to an organ recital at which the newly installed pipe organ was used and shown up of its good qualities. While extensive arrangements for the event were made the committee who had the matter in charge met with disappointment owing to the non-arrival of E. V. Clarke of Milwaukee who was to preside at the pipe organ. Mrs. Van Ness Green who was accompanist, on the spur of the moment, rendered nearly all the important and difficult numbers on the organ for which Mr. Clarke was scheduled, and acquitted herself very creditably.

The program rendered was as follows: A Grand March in E-Flat. M. Costa. Communion in E Minor. Batiste.

Legende. Wieniawski. Miss Bentley.

a Spring Song. Mendelssohn. Celebrated Largo. Handel.

Mrs. Van Ness Green. "And a Highway Shall Be There."

Andante in A-Flat. Chauvet. Andantino. Mendelssohn.

Concerto. Miss Bentley.

a Allegretto. Tours. a Pilgrims Chorus. Wagner.

Mrs. Van Ness Green. Possession. B. Clough. Leitmotif.

Hymn of the Nuns. Mendelssohn. The numbers given by Marion Taylor Hobbs, soprano, of Chicago, were exceedingly good. Nellie Bentley, on her violin, showed herself a professional.

The attendance was far beyond expectations, making the receipts large.

Picnic Tomorrow. Tomorrow the German Lutheran church society hold their annual picnic in Schoomacher's grove, just east of the city. Weather permitting, the day's event promises to be one of great interest. Besides a program to be carried out by the Sunday school the committee have secured Hon. L. C. Whitte for an address in the afternoon and a game of baseball is also included in the afternoon's sports.

Campers Return. Miss Louise Jensen returned yesterday and this morning assumed her position of stenographer at the office of the Edgerton Cigar company, after a vacation of two weeks spent at Lake Kegonsa. The party was composed of the Misses Emma Alvik, Anna Alvik, Amelia Jensen, Selma Guners, Elizabeth Jones, Selma Jensen, Louise Jensen and Mrs. O. E. Jensen.

MUCH IMPRESSED BY THE WESTERN BOOMS

J. A. Craig Writes From Saskatoon Of Progress In That Part of the Country.

J. A. Craig writing under the date of August 12th from Saskatoon, Sask., to the Gazette gives an interesting description of the boom days of this Canadian city in the following graphic letter.

Knowing of your work to help boost Janesville, I can not refrain from sending you a few lines from this place.

If some of the booming spirit that there is in this town could be bottled up and sent back there it might be the means of starting it off, and they would never miss it. Two years ago I visited this city and it was a place four years old and claimed a population of 15,000, where today they claim 25,000 and adding on every day.

Everywhere you look you see buildings going up and large ones at that. On all the down town corners are large buildings up or in process of erection. I counted thirteen banks beside three Trust companies as I walked around the city this morning.

All three railroads coming in here have downtown ticket offices and also maintain separate land offices. Prices of real estate is simply out of sight. The party who owns the warehouse where we have some goods stored told me this morning that he paid $300 per front foot two years ago and this morning he refused to take $700 per front foot and this property is six blocks from the downtown district.

If you will look at the map you will find several branch lines of railroads being operated and others under construction out of here. The three main lines of road (which is all there is in western Canada) go through here, namely, Canadian Pacific, Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk.

I noticed the hotels, with but few exceptions had no sign on the building anywhere and I asked the proprietor of this house why such was the case and he said, "We have more than we can do now, and do not care to call any more people our way." I noticed he had added two new sections to his building since I was here before.

This place is sure to be a large city some day, and that very soon. It will be a wholesale center for this part of the country, covering all lines of goods. I counted ten branch implement houses over in the wholesale section of which six were from the States as they call us people. They have located the University of Saskatchewan here, and are now putting up the buildings. A friend of mine, Prof. Russell from Ames, Iowa, is Dean of the Agricultural school. There are 1,500 acres in the tract including the grounds where the buildings are located, so it would appear they have fixed things so some future University Regents will not be paying $1,200 per acre for more land when our state has done recently. The location of the University grounds is fine, and near the city on the banks of the beautiful Saskatchewan river.

Even the churches are flourishing here, and are so busy they find time to shut down for summer vacation. I was walking last evening and came by a church, and dropped in for the evening service. I found it crowded full, and by estimating the number present, there were between 550 and 600. What do you think of that for a Sunday evening service, and only a fair sized church at that.

I notice even that the skating army can afford to draw this morning. I will have to draw this lot here is a close as you surely will think I am booming Canada. I am going tonight to Edmonton, Alta, where I will find another booming city so I am told. In fact all these towns out in western Canada are growing like mushrooms. I find by talking to the business men they see now what an awful mistake they made in turning down our country's offer of one year ago.

Hoping that our city may sometime catch this boom spirit, I remain, Yours very truly,

J. A. Craig.

OBITUARY.

Infant Daughter.

On Wednesday, Aug. 14th the angel of death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moore of Porter, and took from them their infant daughter, Mary Catherine, aged three months. Although delicate from birth she was the idol of the home, and all that medical aid and loving care could accomplish was done for her, the hand of death could not be stayed. Beside her parents, three brothers and three sisters, John, Agnes, Frank, Ella, Ethel and Emmet are left to mourn her death. The funeral was held on Friday morning from St. Joseph's Catholic church, at Edgerton, at 10 o'clock and the remains were tenderly laid at rest in St. Joseph's cemetery.

John Golden.

Funeral services for the late John Golden of the town of Rock will be held Wednesday morning at ten o'clock from St. Patrick's church.

The last sad rites over the remains of the late William Hemming were performed at half past nine o'clock this morning at St. Patrick's church. Solemn requiem high mass was celebrated, with Fr. E. A. Hemming, of St. Martins, Wis., an uncle of the deceased, as celebrant. Fr. James J. McGinley of Milton Junction, deacon; Fr. William Mahoney sub-deacon and Fr. William A. Goebel, master of ceremonies. Words of praise extolling the many virtues of the deceased were spoken by Fr. Mahoney, who delivered the funeral sermon. Absolution after the mass was pronounced by Fr. E. A. Hemming, who also performed the last rites of the church at the grave. The church was filled with a crowd of the many friends and relatives of the young man, who came to pay their last tributes of respect to his memory. Members of the various teams represented in the Commercial League, in which the deceased had played previous to his death, were present at the services, and members of the Lakota club of which he was a member, attended in a body, accompanying the remains to the grave. The high esteem and respect in which the young man was held was shown by the large number of floral offerings, which were exceedingly beautiful in design. The active pall-bearers, intimate friends of the young man were: Charles Goodwillie of Chicago, a cousin, Emmett Connors, John McGinley, Donald Krost, Francis Greene and John Brown. Members of the Lakota club acted as honorary pall-bearers. They were George Sennett, Dan Sullivan, Will Langdon, James Cronin, Martin Timmons and Joseph Boylen. The remains were tenderly laid at rest in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Friends and relatives from out of town who attended the services were: Mrs. C. F. Goodwillie, Miss Whitford and Charles Goodwillie, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dilzer, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dilzer, all of Chicago; and Miss Camilla Fritschard of Oconomowoc.

ISSUES RULING ON SPEED LIMIT LAWS

Attorney General Bancroft Answers Inquiry of City Attorney Relative to New Ordinance.

According to a Madison dispatch Attorney General L. H. Bancroft on Monday ruled in answer to an inquiry from City Attorney Dougherty that a city or village cannot lawfully pass an ordinance limiting the speed of automobiles to eight miles an hour or any other speed less than the minimum prescribed in the general statute, which is fifteen miles an hour. Following a recent fatal auto accident in Janesville, a movement was started here to limit the speed of automobiles to eight miles an hour. The attorney general, however, points out that the general law provides for a lesser speed than fifteen miles an hour in certain safety conditions, rendering it necessary to make greater than is reasonable and proper, having regard to width, traffic and use of the highways and the general and usual rules of the road.

TOOK ACTION TODAY REGARDING SEWERS

Most Important Business of Regular Meeting of Council Today Concerned Sewer Matters.

Sewer matters came up in connection with the meeting of the council at the city hall this afternoon. The board of public works presented a report on the completion of the sewer work done by Tibbey Bros. at DuBuque, in District No. 3, recommending the payment of $2,213.94 for the work, and the deduction of $89.61 from the amount to be paid the sewer contractors for repair work on crosswalks and streets, which will be done by the city. Favorable action was taken on the report. In the matter of bids for proposed work in Sewer Districts Nos. 3, 4, 5, 14 and 16, a report was made to the council by the board of public works and the contract was awarded to the Gray-Robinson Construction company of Manitowoc, whose bid for the entire work was $4,504.06. Orders for the payment of inspectors on registration day were ordered drawn by the city clerk. Bills for two days' service were presented by the inspectors in the Fourth ward, but it was doubtful if this would be allowed. An order instructing the city clerk to draw an order for $8.00 in favor of E. J. Steverson for the use of his building for registration purposes was also presented at the meeting. Bills totalling $2,283.85 were ordered paid. The council also considered the application of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, through M. P. Appointments of Martin Hessian and Charles Thompson as special officers without pay during the three days of the races were confirmed, and the report of the superintendent of the stone crusher was accepted. A Little Talk on Vaudeville and Feature Films

The average performer in vaudeville in a city like Janesville receives about $5 per day for his work. Out of this he must pay railroad fair, hotel bills and minor items that reduce his net income to half the amount. What kind of performers can you expect to work at this price? Do you wonder that half of them are disappointing? Yet experience has shown that the business will not warrant higher salaries, or managers would be glad to pay more and get better acts. On the other hand there has been such an increase in the production of feature films like the "101" Bison, "Cinderella," "Zigomar," "Jess," etc., that the time is here when a manager can, without increasing his expense, substitute film productions that are really great, for vaudeville acts that are generally more or less disappointing often. For fifteen or twenty dollars a night he can either hire an ordinary vaudeville bill, or he can rent a set of films that cost a fortune to produce. "Which shall he do?" is the question. "What do most people want?" and can be definitely answered only by trial.

Therefore to find whether the public prefers it to vaudeville, this newest development in entertainment will be tried at the Royal Theatre. For four weeks, beginning Friday, August 30, remember Manager Callahan is giving a try-out to Fred Walker, the former University of Chicago pitcher. Walker has been pitching great ball for Washington semi-pro teams and seems to have a lot of stuff. Griffith tried him out in practice and liked his looks, but feared he was tangled up in some way with a Pacific coast team, so did not use him.

"The Dozen League is a joke," A. W. Wagner, owner of the Terre Haute franchise in the Central league, is quoted as saying. He declares President Carson of the South Bend team also has reached the conclusion that a league with a dozen clubs cannot be made a success.

The annual tourney of the National Association of Anglers is being held in Chicago. Washington Park is the scene. Contestants are there from all parts of the United States and teams from London and Melbourne also will compete.

"Hereafter I will have nothing to do with building up the St. Louis Cardinals," declared Manager Roger Bresnahan. "I have arranged two trades with Cincinnati, both of which were blocked by Mrs. Britton the owner. I am done with everything except running the club on the field." Bresnahan wished to trade Miller Huggins and George Ellis for Mike Mitchell.

Horse Show at Bar Harbor.

Bar Harbor, Me. Aug. 20.—The fashionable summer colony passed up golf, tennis and yachting today and turned its attention exclusively to the annual exhibition of the Bar Harbor Horse Show association was opened under brilliant auspices. In the quality and number of exhibits the show this year has never been excelled here. Particular attention is being paid to and McDonald, Red stars. Everything was complete when Mrs. Britton set her foot down. Three times this season she has demonstrated that she believes her judgment on the qualifications of athletes better than that of her manager and has refused to sanction trades, although Bresnahan has a contract giving him the right to make such deals as he sees fit. Cincinnati wanted Higgins for a manager.

J. Franklin Baker is one athlete who the world series hero Jinx failed to worry. In past seasons the star of the big doings generally slumped and was either relegated to the minors or failed to come into his own for a long period. Robe, Altrock and Isbell of the White Sox, Adams of the Pirates, Deleahanty and numerous others fell under the spell. Baker, however, goes merrily on his way, hitting around the 350 mark, with a full quota of extra base drives.

Outfielder Ten Million, who was on the Naps roster last winter, has turned out to be a plugged cent. Ten Million is now back at his old stamping ground Tacoma, Wash., of the Northwestern league. He was with Sioux City, Ia., up to a few days ago.

Who will head the All Stars if the Red Sox win the pennant? A good guess would be either Connie Mack or Clark Griffith.

SIDEWALK KETCHES.

THE CANNING SEASON.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

THE canning season is an annual epidemic which disrupts the peace and quiet of the American home and drives acrimonious husbands to the daily lunch.

It is short season, seldom extending over six months in any direction. While it is on, married men are hunted from pillar to post and obliged to consort with impromptu cooking and the bleak visage of the cold boiled ham.

The home canny begins its nefarious operations as soon as the frost is out of the ground, landing first on the defenseless form of the shy wife, who is seized and wedged into tall glass jars. This makes a fine long-distance celerator and can be served ten years later without discomfort to anybody except the guests.

It is a very simple matter to can strawberries. All that is necessary is to pick, bathe, husk and overheat the berries, then crowd them into a jar in close proximity to one another with a potato masher. It is even easier to can the bifurcated peach, which opens up like suit case.

The canned cherry is a treacherous article and is not recommended by anybody except the dental union, which likes nothing better than to have some patient bite down on a cherry pit and break off a new crown. The lowest depth of depravity in canned goods is the pickled gooseberry, a nervous preparation which runs one leg through the jar and then explodes with gratifying success. Canned goods are sold mainly to Arctic explorers, who resort to them only when the supply of Esquimaux dogs has been exhausted. The man who can see any beauty in the northern lights after luxuriating for six weeks on the canned baked bean has a poet's soul and a proof reader's appetite.

The canny is a repository for decadent language and decayed thought. Owing to the number of people who never can tell whether the English language should be written forward or backward, it is a busy place.

He Was an Obliging Landlord.
I read a story in the Hotel Gazette which illustrates the obliging landlord of today. A man was stopping at a little seaside resort kept by a German. One day the guest went into the ocean to bathe and got beyond his depth. He couldn't swim, and as he struggled he gave a loud cry for help. The German landlord, hearing the cry, came out on the veranda, and saw his guest just disappearing beneath the wave, and as he sank he threw up one despairing hand with fingers outstretched. The landlord went back into the house and brought out five beers.—Slimeon Ford.

WRITES OF THE GREAT LIBRARIES

Authoritative Article Included in New Book Which is One Great Library in Itself.

When you gaze upon the wonders of the Congressional Library you find yourself speculating as to whether its splendors have ever been equaled. There is one man who can answer your question correctly, and he is Theodore W. Koch, Ph. D. D., Sc., librarian of the University of Michigan and late bibliographer to Cornell University.

Dr. Koch has just written a monograph on American and European libraries, their extent and peculiarities, which make interesting reading. The article appears as one of the features of a book that is a great library condensed in itself—the New Websterian 1912 Dictionary, Illustrated.

No matter how great a public library you are readily admitted to, you have not the time to go to it every time you are in need of a bit of information. What you need is a fund of ready references at your elbow. This is what the new Websterian gives to you. It is handsomely bound in limp leather, profusely illustrated in colors and monotypes, with duograph charts and maps, census statistics, glossaries of all sorts, in fact everything to meet your every day needs in the way of information. The most remarkable thing about the book is, however, the fact that you can secure it for six coupons clipped from The Gazette, and a small expense bonus.

This Dictionary is NOT published by the original publishers of Webster's Dictionary or by their successors. It has been revised and brought up to the present date in accordance with the best authorities from the greatest universities, and is published by a well known publishing company, of New York City.

No Sailor.
One of the characteristics of the Cape Cod native is the habit of understatement, according to R. H. Schaffer in the Metropolitan Magazine, and for an example he gives the answer of an old "accommodation" driver in Provincetown who was asked if he had ever been a sailor. "No," he said. "No, I never followed the sea none to speak of. Oh, when I was young I done some fishin'; I went on a few whalin' voyages—perhaps a matter o' eighteen year in all; but I wouldn't say I'd ever done much fishin'."

KNOX'S MISSION.
The United States will be represented at the royal funeral of the late Mikado by Secretary of State Knox. An exchange in commenting upon the appointment of Mr. Knox to this position says:

For the same reason that Germany selected a prince to represent her at the formal ceremonies which Japan will employ in burying the body of the Emperor, the United States will send the head of its department of state, and the framer of its foreign policy for the past three years. There are special causes why both Germany and the United States desire to be exceptionally courteous to Japan at the present time and hence no occasion is lost sight of. From its European correspondent, the Monitor already has published a significant article indicating the purpose to Great Britain of the entente, if not alliance, recently perfected between Russia and Japan and determining their future policy with respect to Manchuria and Mongolia. The same combination of powers recently at war but now united, has its very decided bearing upon the American policy for preserving China's unity and securing the "open door," unless that policy as defined by Secretary Hay and seconded by Secretary Root has been considerably modified by Secretary Knox's "dollar diplomacy" and by his inclusion of America in the six-power loan scheme for China. If there has been any such marked modification of the Hay-Root policy the American public has yet to be told of it in formal phrase, although intimations of such alteration are current.

Whatever time may disclose as to this important detail of diplomatic history in which the American public even now should be profoundly interested and fully informed, it is apparent that Secretary Knox by visiting Tokio at just this juncture is likely to make history as well as suitably to represent the republic at a time of mourning by a friendly nation. Like Secretary Root when, establishing an excellent precedent, he saw Latin America and met her statesmen at first hand, Secretary Knox will probably return home wiser than he went.

HISTORIC RELICS.
Within the past few years a sentiment has become prevalent throughout the country to preserve the birthplaces or homes of America's great statesmen. The Lincoln Memorial farm in Kentucky, the McKinley arch and other memorials have been a step towards making sacred the historic places of this continent. Young in history, it is still replete in historic incidents and perhaps there is no better way to commemorate the lives and deeds of the great men of this nation than in the manner suggested. The Washington memorial near Washington is visited by thousands yearly and now congress seeks to perpetuate the name of another great American and former president. Sentiment favorable to acquisition of Thomas Jefferson's home at Monticello, Va., having crystallized in the form of a joint resolution introduced in the Senate and passed there, the issue has been raised before the House committee as to whether adoption of such an order can be given practical effect if the present owner continues to refuse to sell the historic property. The nation's right of eminent domain is not denied; it was asserted when part of the Gettysburg battlefield was taken. Appeal was then made to the federal supreme court, and congressional authority was affirmed. Now, therefore, the issue is whether the real estate made memorable by the life of Jefferson upon it comes within the class of property made sufficiently national in sentimental worth as to justify its acquisition by extreme process of law.

Definition of standards of this kind is difficult. There is much evidence available justifying the dictum that the American people are far readier today to justify Congress in reasonable expenditures for historic sites than was the public of a generation ago. There is more spare cash for such spending, and more societies exist to further such memorial ends and to set the example of generous private expenditure. If a majority of the national lawmakers decide that Monticello should be national property, it will be a representative act, and we believe they need fear no severe contemporary criticism.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT
BY ROY K. MOULTON.
The sneak thief took a desperate chance and yanked the handsome handbag from the lady's hand as she entered the crowded street car. He had been watching that beautiful and expensive handbag for some time. As the women screamed he jumped from the car and was quickly pursued by an ever-growing crowd, including three or four policemen. Faster and faster he ran, dodging around corners and doubling on his course until he finally evaded his pursuers. He sank down behind an ash barrel in an alley, entirely exhausted. When he had recovered his breath he began a careful invoice of the beautiful handbag. This is what he found:
One street car ticket, one powder puff, one sample of lace one club program, one bottle snuffing salts, one ad clipped from newspaper, one bunch of hairpins, one package of court plaster, one stick of chewing gum, one handkerchief, one doorkey, one safety pin, one letter from mail order house, one clipping concerning woman suffrage, one 2-cent stamp, six calling cards, one memorandum book, one deck of playing cards, one lace collar, one belt, one large button, 17 small buttons, one sample of sewing silk, one recipe for orange marmalade, one birthday book, one address book, Lillian Russell's beauty hints, two church social tickets, one slipper in need of mending, one package of tooth powders, six after-dinner mints, one silk stocking, one nail file, one nail polisher, one vanity box, one hand mirror, one toothbrush, one package of flower seeds and one pocket comb.

Let Her Vote.
If you think she knows as much As the steersman Turk and such, Let her vote.
If you think she has a mind Equal to the steersman kind, Let her vote.
If you think she's earned the right, That you grant without a fight, To the foreign bedlamite, Let her vote.
If you think she is as good As the burglar brotherhood, Let her vote.
If she's more deserving than Any bum or holdup man, Let her vote.
You do not bar out the thug Or the anarchist bug, Or the gin mill ugly mug, Let her vote.

COMING PRIMARIES.
The date for the coming primaries continues to draw nearer and the work of the aspiring politician consequently becomes harder and harder. Under our present law the candidate himself is subject to much humiliation through requirements of peddling his own bills and cards and seeking favor from the individual voter. Some day this law will be amended perhaps or stricken from the statute books but as it is the candidate suffers all kinds of humiliation through its machinations.
It is up to the voters to select good men for the offices they seek. The contest in the list of county officers is no less acute than is the battle royal for the legislative places. The fight for the state senatorship promises to be most interesting. In fact it is now becoming a bit heated and insinuations are being hurled right and left in a manner that does not befit the dignity of the office. The voter wants to know the truth about matters of legislation but it would not seem probable that to give them the candidates should indulge in billingsgate and abuse. All three men are gentlemen and they should not be so ill advised to adopt the tactics of the small ward politician.

The real issue at stake is the income tax law and its repeal or alteration so that it meets the requirements. Meanwhile the industries of the state are going to suffer and when they suffer the average wage earner also suffers and consequently it is not merely a question of a few but of many that will be affected.

There is a good field of candidates in the race for the county ticket on the republican side of the fence and care should be made in selecting those best fitted for the position they seek. The individual voter should know the situation thoroughly by this time, so there can be no mistake on primary day. One essential thing however is for the republicans to stay in their primary and not try to vote for democrats.

Strange that President Madeto can't see a perfectly obvious way out of his troubles. Why doesn't he organize a police force like that in New York and make all the revolutionary leaders officers in it?

A Louisville woman fears that a dollar due day will not be worth as much as thirty cents. A lone collar today isn't worth that much when it comes to paying for a meal in a first-class hotel.

Somebody is sounding a keynote almost every day now. Still, when the concert begins it will sound like a village band essaying the "Star Spangled Banner" for the first time.

A Chicago woman jumped into the water to save a man who she discovered was her husband. But she was game, even then, and brought him ashore.

"Eat six meals a day if you would be healthy," says a New York doctor. Yet a person could get as much exercise in a gymnasium.

Finally the Filipinos are becoming civilized. They are giving up cock-fighting and beginning to throw things at the umpire.

The Schuberts want $800 chorus girls and can't get them. There is no way to make the Pittsburghers stay at home.

Unfortunately, the movement of troops upon New York is not directed against its police department.

FORMER JANEVILLE MAN IS RUNNING FOR OFFICE

Pearce Tompkins, Who Formerly Worked in Janesville, Seeks Office As State Senator.
Pearce Tompkins of Ashland, formerly of Janesville, is one of the candidates for the nomination as state senator from his district, the Twelfth, at the coming elections. Mr. Tompkins, who is now engaged in the practice of law, for a number of years lived in this city, and was employed by the M. Ruob Brewing company. He is a candidate on the republican ticket.

DIED AT HER TUB.
Motherhood:
How its deathless, gentle spirit runs through all the sex, from the bird mother that feeds her brood and fights for it to the human mother who loves her own and sacrifices and dies for it! An instance:
The hardworking husband of a New York (N. Y.) woman died, leaving her to support six small children. Friends advised her to part with some of them, but the indomitable mother spirit refused, so she took in washing.
Day after day she toiled at her tub, and far into the night she bent over her ironing board. The oldest boy called for and delivered her work. And thus she kept the wolf from the door. Others pitied her, but she went joyously to her hard daily task, for it was reward enough that she was able to provide for her dependent offspring. But gradually this brave mother broke down.
There were days of cruel pains, days of weakness and weariness. There were nights in the stifling little kitchen where she finished the laundry of the rich when she often fainted.
So my correspondent says.
There were days of illness when she could not work. Earnings grew less and to feed the hungry mouths, it is feared, she often went without food.
And then one day the mother fell over her tub—dead!
Which is all. But isn't it enough? She paid the last full measure of motherly devotion. Men and women often die heroic deaths under impulse, but this poor mother died by inches, straining in long drawn agony the last drop of her blood to earn bread and butter for her babes.
If the newspaper headlines record how one dies in his post and another goes down with his engine, surely this mother deserves in big letters (how strange to see it that way)—
"Died at Her Tub."

DINNER STORIES

The young man's tones were low and impassioned as he knelt at the fair girl's feet and pleaded with her, "I would do anything for you!" he vowed. "For you I would give up all I have in the world; for you I would journey out to the ends of the earth; for you I would even lay down life itself and count myself honored!"

The maid came down her eyes. "Marmaduke," she replied in dulcet accents, "if you would do all that for me, perhaps for my sake you would do one little thing more."
"Yes, yes," he raved his voice thick with love; "only tell me, beloved—tell me your command, and I will fulfill it though the whole world be against me!"
The maid looked at him pretty straight. "Then would you kindly take your left knee off my right foot?" she said calmly. "You're kneeling right on my worst corn!"
Every now and then John D. Archbold—whose brain is considered in Standard Oil only second to that of John Dee's—slices off a thick wedge of his fortune and confers it upon some deserving institution. But it is to be observed that Mr. Archbold always does the slicing. No one ever hurries up and takes money away from him. And when he is engaged in a business undertaking he can figure costs and credits down to the ultimate decimal.

"I learned to do that in Leesburg, O., where I was born," said he to a friend. "I began my business life by clerking in a grocery store in Ohio. The wives of farmers would come in with eggs and butter and other commodities. In those days there was no such thing as a one-price rule. We got what we could—and as markets had not been systematized as they are now, and transportation facilities were poor, we paid what we had to and roughly tried to figure out a profit. One could not take a slate and half an hour and do that figuring in the rear of the store, either. It had to be done right off the reel, and convincingly. I've learned a lot of other things in business since then, but the best training I ever had was in that little Ohio grocery store. It taught me the value of absolute knowledge of the details of my business."

Someone suggested that Mr. Archbold probably laid the foundation of his fortune there. "Let me tell you," said he impressively. "There is a lot of good mental talent going to waste on Ohio farms. Most of those farmers' wives skinned me."

Where the Devilry Begins.
"All the devilry between the sexes begins at their separation. They're foreigners when they meet, and their alliances are not always binding. The chief object in life, if happiness be the aim, and the growing better than we are, is to teach men and women how to be one; for if they're not, then each is a morsel for the other to prey upon."—George Meredith.

Found in Old Battle Ground.
While cutting turf in Corlara bog, County Roscommon (Ireland) on the estate of Mr. J. J. Doyle, J. P., a number of copper battleax heads, armor and military utensils were unearthed the other day at a depth of about thirty feet. On this spot was formerly fought a fierce battle between the clans of the O'Rourke of Breffni and a sept of the O'Connors of Roscommon.

Trouble With the Eyes.
Sometimes tiny hairs become loosened and get beneath the eyelids. Before going to all the trouble of examining the upper and lower lids, fill the wash bowl with cold water and open the eyes under water. Open and shut them several times, and in nearly every instance this will wash out the bothersome hair. It will at least loosen such a hair so that it may be easily removed by the cotton-tipped toothpick.

Returns from the district school clerks to the county superintendent show that the list of teachers who will serve in the country schools in the twenty townships of the county next year has been completed with but one or two exceptions. In many of the districts the former teachers have been retained at substantial advances in salaries and wherever experienced teachers have been employed there has usually been a raise in the salary paid. In only a few schools where the teachers are new and without experience has there been a decrease.

Supt. Antisel states that the average salary for a district school teacher in Rock County is much higher this year according to the data which he has at hand. The average salary will range between $40 and $45 and no salaries are below $30 per month. Most of the districts pay above $40. In a number of places the salaries are as high as $55 to $65.

The entire number of students who were graduates from the Rock county teachers' training school last June have secured positions in the county schools which is an excellent showing for the new institution. These young people are especially well equipped for rural school work and districts where they are employed are considered fortunate. Following is the list of teachers who will serve in the various schools:

BELIEVE ITALAINS ARE IN JOHNSTOWN WOOD;
MURDERERS SOUGHT

Little Doubt Now But That Two Suspects Are Connected With Shooting at West Allis.

Additional information received here last evening by Chief of Police George M. Appleby in a telephone conversation with the mayor of Waukesha in regard to the Italians who did the shooting at West Allis last Wednesday night, lead Chief Appleby to the conclusion that the two men seen in the woods near Johnstown Sunday and yesterday are the characters wanted.

The description of one of the men as given by the Waukesha official closely resembles that given by residents of Johnstown who saw the men Sunday and Monday. A person short in stature, with very dark complexion, eyes closely set together, a small dark mustache, dark clothes and a gray cap, was the description given and was almost identical with that given by Ivan Bahr, a farm hand on the R. W. Taylor farm, who saw both the men shortly before noon yesterday.

A telephone call was received by Sheriff E. H. Ransom from Dr. C. Dyke at Johnstown yesterday afternoon stating that Bahr had seen two Italians in the wood lot of the Taylor farm Monday morning and had held a conversation with them. They believed that the men were still in the vicinity.

Sheriff Ransom and Chief Appleby, and posse left in an automobile for Johnstown after word was received determined to make an investigation and to locate the men if possible, although they had spent all day Sunday in a futile search.

The woods on the Taylor farm were searched as thoroughly as possible but no trace of the alleged murderers could be found. Mr. Bahr told the local authorities that he had been approached by one of the men while he was loading wood in the wood lot Monday morning. He did not see the man coming and was unaware of his presence until he felt the touch of his hand on his shoulder.

He was startled on turning around to see an Italian whom he described as above. The fellow asked him how far it was to Janesville and was told that the distance was twelve miles or more. He had little else to say and disappeared into the woods accompanied by a companion who stood at some distance during the conversation with Bahr. All that Bahr could say of the second man was that he wore a blue coat.

According to description received from Waukesha the other man who is sought is five feet ten inches in height, 25 years old, wearing a light suit. He is said to be the man who did the shooting.

Aside from the fact that the two men seen at Johnstown have acted suspiciously, the fact that two Italians are found wandering in the woods when they usually keep close to the railroad tracks, is in itself grounds for an investigation. As the ridge of woods in which the men were seen extends from within a few of Janesville to the vicinity of Waukesha, it would be a natural conjecture that the offenders would take this natural avenue of escape.

Farmers in the vicinity of Johnstown have been aroused and will keep a close lookout and keep authorities here informed if the men are sighted again.

Another telephone message was received at the sheriff's office this afternoon that man similar to the one seen at Johnstown Sunday, was seen in a corn field on the Richard Hogan farm on the Beloit road.

Farmers in the vicinity of Johnstown have been aroused and will keep a close lookout and keep authorities here informed if the men are sighted again.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

"SHE'LL UNDERSTAND"

A RETURNED vacationist was writing a half dozen thank notes to as many friends who had contributed towards making her vacation successful.

She did not have time to write the notes all at once, so she glanced over the list and said: "I'll leave Elaine's until next week. Of course she did more for me than anyone, but she's such an old friend that she'll understand and forgive me. I must surely write Mrs. R. and Mrs. S. tonight or they'll think I'm terribly negligent."

Now isn't that a typical decision?

And is it not rather a queer philosophy which makes the majority of us inclined to treat those we love the most with the least consideration and courtesy?

For strangers and for the most formal acquaintances we keep our finest clothes, our best manners and our most careful courtesies. Our close friends must put up with our second or third best. And yet for our very nearest and dearest—why anything at all will do for them.

A neighbor of mine is expecting a simultaneous visit from two women. One woman is her dearest and oldest friend; the other is a comparative stranger whom she has met but half a dozen times and may never see again. Now my neighbor has two guest rooms. That is, one is a genuine guest room, a large, beautiful chamber, daintily and luxuriously appointed; the other is a little hall room, a cross between a sewing room and a nursery, which is occasionally cleaned up and turned into a guest room when stress of circumstances demands it.

Now which of these two rooms do you think is to be given to the lifelong friend the woman who has been as dear as a sister to my neighbor, and which is to be given to the stranger who means almost nothing to her?

Of course you know the answer. The dearest friend is to be tucked away in that hybrid nursery-sewing room, because "she'll understand," and the unloved stranger is to be installed in the luxurious guest room.

"Well, what on earth would you do?" I can hear some indignant reader exclaim. "Surely you wouldn't put that strange woman into the little room and let her think you didn't have anything better?"

Calm yourself my friend while I freely admit that I would probably do just as my neighbor is going to. Being human and a woman I suppose I should feel the imperative necessity of showing off my guest room to the stranger.

But that only means that I am illogical, not that that would be logical.

Friends are wonderful things, probably the most wonderful things in all the world. While acquaintances, at best, are only potential friends. So let's remember that "she'll understand" is a very feeble justification for slighting our friends, and one that may easily be overworked.

home life for they have come to realize that the home is the basis of social and civic life and that through its character the individuality of the nation is shaped.

So now women are seeking individuality and in no place is it more apparent, and more excellent, than in the craft of cookery. There is as much difference in what is served on your neighbor's table and what goes on your table as there is in the carving of the table legs. In both homes the food has the home-taste but it is a matter of pride with each housekeeper that tastes are not alike. Yet as soon as these women are alone together they generously accept one another's recipes—what they do with them is another story.

But here is an offering that has been tested and found meritorious.

Mrs. Standish's green tomato mince for pies—Four large green tomatoes chopped fine, four sour apples pared and minced, and one pound seeded raisins. One-half cup boiled cider and one cup each of sugar and New Orleans molasses, one tablespoon of butter, one-half nutmeg grated, one teaspoon of cinnamon and one-half teaspoon of cloves and a like quantity of salt. Boil these ingredients ten minutes and can. When using add a tablespoon of flour moistened to a paste to each filling. "This," says Neighbor Standish, "can hardly be told from genuine mince-meat."

Mrs. Standish's corn salad—Boil the following fifteen minutes, corn cut from twelve ears, one head of cabbage chopped, three peppers, one and a half cups of sugar, two tablespoons of white mustard seed, one tablespoon of celery seed, two tablespoons of salt, one quart of white vinegar. Then add a heaping teaspoon of turmeric mixed with two tablespoons of olive oil, and if too dry a little more vinegar.

Mrs. Standish also tells how to mix Rouquelot cheese dressing as they do in California: Mix the cheese with olive oil, vinegar and paprika, using twice as much vinegar as oil but not enough to cover the flavor of the cheese, and sufficient paprika to color the mixture red. The whole should be of the consistency of mayonnaise. This is excellent to use with cress and lettuce and with chopped celery in sandwiches.

Another contributed recipe, from Carolina, is for sweet potato balls and coquettes. As the market now is filled with these splendid vegetables housekeepers will enjoy them. Rub four cooked sweet potatoes through a sieve and beat them in a sauce pan with half an ounce of butter and a tablespoon of cream. Stir until smooth and season with salt and pepper and a dash of cinnamon; when cold shape into balls and bread. If sweet potatoes are liked still sweeter, omit pepper and season with a little crushed lemon peel, two teaspoons of sugar and the cinnamon.

Egg and bread them and when they are fried a fine brown serve with powdered sugar strewn over them.

PICKLING TIME.

Every frugal housekeeper likes to have her shelves well stocked with good things for the winter. Today one may buy such good canned goods that much of the work has been given up; but we all have a few time-honored and handed-down recipes which we prepare each year. The following are a few which are old and reliable:

To Can Green Corn Without Cooking.—Take nine cups of corn cut from the cob, have the corn just picked, one cup of sugar, half a cup of salt and a cup of cold water; mix all together and place in sterilized cans, sealed tight. Freshen when using.

Beet Relish.—A quart of boiled beets chopped, two cups of sugar, tablespoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of white pepper, half a teaspoon of red pepper and a cup of grated horseradish; mix all together and add enough vinegar to make it moist. Can cold.

Canned Red Peppers.—These delicious little appetizers which cost too much in the winter to have often, may be canned successfully at home. First, raise your own sweet peppers; and when ready to can, wash and cut in strips with the scissors, cover with boiling water and let stand five minutes; drain and plunge into ice water to cover, in which there is a large piece of ice. Again drain and pack into pint jars. To one quart of vinegar add two cups of sugar. Boil together fifteen minutes and pour over the peppers until overflowing; seal and store in a cold place.

Ripe Tomato Pickle.—Mix the following ingredients in a stone jar: Three pints of peeled and chopped tomatoes, a cup of celery chopped, four tablespoonfuls of chopped red pepper, the "bit" kind, and four tablespoonfuls of chopped onion, the same of salt, six tablespoonfuls of same of salt, six tablespoonfuls of teaspoonful of cloves, the same of cinnamon, a teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, and two cups of vinegar. This will keep a year, and is good to use in a week. Fine for meats.

To sum up, the things to be avoided are: Improper food, too frequent feeding, dressing the baby too warmly, flies—flies carry germs that frequently cause diarrhea and dysentery, and carelessness. Also avoid giving the baby "cups" that is said to be good for diarrhea and dysentery.

SUMMER DIARRHOEA.

Out of every one hundred (100) babies born in the civilized world, twenty-five die in the first year. In each one hundred (100) deaths among children under two years of age thirty-seven are caused by disease of the digestive system.

When we stop long enough to seriously consider the matter—the saddened homes, the heart-broken mothers and fathers, the loss to society and state—and come to realize that at least one half of this loss is avoidable, that it is due largely to negligence and ignorance, don't you think it is time to start a campaign to educate the mothers and fathers in the care of their children?

Many cases of "summer diarrhea" which terminate fatally could have been easily controlled in their early stages, that is the first twenty-four hours, had the proper measures been employed.

Hot weather does not kill babies in itself. Deaths are chiefly due to the effects of hot weather upon the food. Mothers who are nursing babies must be especially careful of their own health during hot summer months. They must avoid overworking, getting too warm, too rich and heavy foods, and last but not least, avoid flies of anger.

Diarrhoea is an effort on the part of Nature to rid the digestive tract of offending (poisonous) material. The frequent foul smelling, greenish, slimy stool, vomiting, rise in temper-

HEART AND HOME TALKS

BY BARBARA BOYD

The Near-Smart

THE dining room of the little summer hotel was dimly lighted with candles. Harried looking waiters scurried about serving exceedingly small portions of badly cooked food. There was an abundance of china on the table and imitation cut glass, but little else. The guests, mostly women, were in low-necked, trained dinner gowns, rather cheap and tawdry in material and trimming.

The effect of the whole thing was that of a far-off attempt to be exclusive and fashionable.

The women were trying to find satisfaction in a show of smart service and in an attempt at fashionable dress, believing that they were giving the impression that they were of the socially elect.

This spirit is abroad to a large extent in our country. Many of us are acquiring a taste for the artificial, and losing a love for the sincere.

On the streets of our large cities we see women and young girls by the hundreds dressed in artificial fashion from head to foot. In no one thing are they dressed genuinely or sincerely. In every article of their apparel they are trying to counterfeit a richer dress, or to give the impression that their dress represents something other than it does.

Lace is imitation. Beads are imitation. Imitation silk is worn. Cotton gloves that simulate kid cover the hands. Mock gems are everywhere. Willow plumes grace 50 cent hats. White shoes are worn by the girl going to her factory work. The spirit of it all is artificiality, imitation, lack of genuineness.

It is not a good thing. We are getting to admire and to follow false standards. We are beginning to think that the artificial is sufficient. We are becoming satisfied with it.

But when we adopt such standards are we not degenerating, degenerating both as an individual and as a nation? We gradually lose our regard for all that is genuine and fine and true. We become content with the false. And when we get to this state, we lose all spur to achievement. We lose the desire to accomplish. And we are on the road to decay.

Would it not be well, therefore, to take a stand for the genuine, to set our face resolutely against the artificial and imitative? Every one of us can throw some influence on the side of the genuine and the true, either in the home, in our dress, in our mode of living. And we know in our heart of hearts that it is truth and sincerity and genuineness that really bring content. In the artificial life, in the life that is pretending to be something it isn't, is very little real satisfaction.

And since the tide seems to be setting so strongly that way, surely it is time to do something to try to stem it.

Heart and Home Problems

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am married six years and have a little boy five years old. My husband is much older than I am. I am not very old—I married when only a school girl. There is a young man near my age who loves me and I love him. My husband is very jealous of him. He knows I like this boy.

My husband is thirty-three years old. He doesn't want me to go anywhere and if I do he thinks I have been with this young man. He won't even go with me. Please give me some advice as I am very unhappy.

GEORGIA.

My dear, I can only give you one bit of advice and that is, it never pays for a married woman to love anybody but her husband.

Your husband is not an old man at all, and if you are not careful he will be finding some other woman who will think enough of him to make him happy. Turn away this boy for good and all. Refuse to see him at any time. His love for you is not honorable.

Tell your husband everything and ask him to help you center all your love in him and your boy. Tell him you'd rather go out with him than any other man on earth, anyway, and that you're unhappy because he doesn't invite you any more.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am married four years and have two boys—three years and one year old. My husband started to drink and gamble shortly after we were married. Every pay day he spends his money and thinks he can do just as he likes with me. If he feels like whipping and slapping me, he does it. I run me out of the house at night. He is a big, strong man, and what am I to do with two small children?

M. A.

Take the matter before the juvenile court in your city. The judge will protect you and make him support you and the children. It seems as if I to do with two small children?

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1)—I have dark eyes, dark hair, rosy cheeks and a dark complexion. What am I? (2)—I would like to ask some friends to my home. How can I entertain them? How could I ask them? (3)—In introducing people, is it proper to say, "Mr. So-and-So," if the party introduced is from fourteen to sixteen years of age? At what age can the gentleman be introduced as "Mr.?" What is a nice way of introducing people? Is there anything different than "Pleased to meet you." (4)—What is a good way of writing an invitation for a surprise party on a girl's sixteen? CURIOS.

(1)—Brunette. (2)—There are several books or games, and a large number of parlor games, to be bought at the book stores. Just write an informal note to each, or call on them and tell them you would like them all to spend an informal evening at your home. Lemonade, cake and ice cream would be nice for refreshments. (3)—For a boy under eighteen, say "Master Jack Jones." A boy is called Mr. when he is big enough to look it—anywhere from eighteen years on. In introducing, say, "Miss So-and-So." I would like to have you meet my friend, Mr. So-and-So." The reply might be "I am very glad to meet Mr. So-and-So."

(4)—A "surprise" is an informal affair, therefore just write a little note to each saying that the "surprise" is to be given on a certain day at a certain time, give place of meeting and state whether refreshments are to be brought or not.

Dear Mrs. Thompson. I am a man of twenty-four and in love with a girl seven years my junior. As I have been in love before with a young girl of about the same age I would like your advice.

This young girl seems to care for me very much, but when I ask her if she loves me she says she does not know, but she likes me better than she has ever liked a young man before. She kept company with a young man before for whom she did not care, but he is still after her. She goes to the postoffice every morning to get his mail and allows him to call for it in the office where she is employed. Is she doing right? Is she too young to consider the meaning of love? Is $60 a month enough to keep up a house? As the girl is so young and has at least 3 or 4 years to marry and I am willing to wait for her, do I love her truly? How is my grammar, spelling and composition?

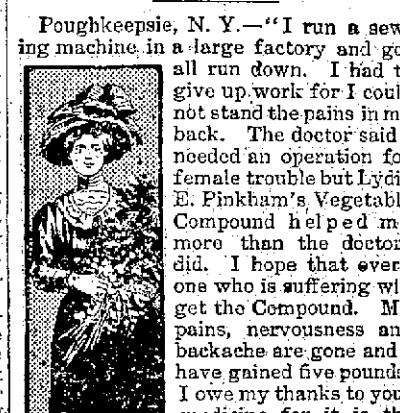

A TRUE LOVER.

Why don't you fall in love with a woman and not a foolish little girl too young to know her own mind? You can't possibly have the right kind of love for her, even though you are willing to wait three or four years to marry her. She is nothing but a child, and you have no right to ask her to bind herself to you until she is old enough to marry. Her flirtations are childish affairs of which she is old enough to know what love means. You could keep house very modestly on $60 a month. Your grammar, spelling, and composition are good.

FACTORY GIRL GIVES UP

Too Sick to Work—Doctor Advised Operation. Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—"I run a sewing machine in a large factory and got all run down. I had to give up work for I could not stand the pains in my back. The doctor said I needed an operation for female trouble but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me more than the doctors did. I hope that every one who is suffering will get the Compound. My pains, nervousness and backache are gone and I have gained five pounds. I owe my thanks to your medicine for it is the working girls friend, and all women who suffer should write to you for special advice."—Miss WILLIE FLENGIZ, 3 Jay St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

When a remedy has lived for over thirty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their very lives to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

We challenge anyone to show any other one remedy for a special class of disease which has attained such an enormous demand and maintained it for so many years as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

or another while their sisters are working long hours in shops and offices or doing anything that comes to their hands, in order to take care of themselves and help the family along. In many cases, too, these girls provide money for their idle brothers.

"Oh, yes, my brother is willing to work if he can get the kind of work he likes to do," said the little stenographer who works hard from 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. every day in the week. "But he wants the kind of work where he can stay dressed up all the time. He likes to keep his hands white and his collar clean."

The mother of a twenty-year-old boy sighed.

"My son is out of work again," she said. "His father wants him to learn the plumbing business so he can carry on the business, but the boy doesn't like that kind of work. He's a bright boy, and thinks he ought to succeed in some intellectual pursuit."

A mother and her two children are just now living on the bounty of a sister. The husband has failed in business.

"No, John hasn't found what he wants yet," she told a visiting friend. "It's too bad, he had to give up those elegant offices. Everything was so complete, and he spent so much money fixing up everything. But the people he borrowed the money from wouldn't wait any longer, and the customers didn't come, though John stayed in the office all the time and waited. I'm sure I don't know what we are going to do unless John finds something equal to his abilities. Of course, he can't do manual work. He is too intelligent and refined."

Meantime John, who has borrowed from his friends until they have lost patience with him, is spooning where he may, still awaiting that grand opportunity to get rich quick by some turn of luck, while honest work is simply pleading for somebody to come and do it.

But John and a lot of his like remain idle until rather than soil their hands or put on overalls or do anything that would prevent them from wearing a white collar during the day.

Such a man thinks he is a gentleman. He believes he is too good to toil. He considers it demeaning to sweat over his work, to strain his muscles, to do a man's work. He has too much pride to stoop to anything beneath his brain and abilities, though he hasn't enough pride to keep himself from being a burden to his relatives or his wife or his friends. I have some respect for the low-browed foreigner shoveling clay out of a ditch—the man who can't even speak our language yet but who is willing to take any honest work he can get to support himself and his family, than I have for the man with such a high opinion of himself that he won't work unless he gets what he considers a "gentleman's job."

There are too many families where the boys are idle upon one excuse

JANESVILLE DIVINE IS IN THE CANADIAN WILDS FOR HIS VACATION TRIP.

TELLS IN PEN PICTURE

Of the Country He is Visiting and
What Goes on Across The Border.

Peers Rock, New Brunswick, Can.,
August 16, 1912.

The Editor of the Gazette,
Dear Sir:

As several of my friends at home expressed an interest in my vacation experiences in the wild places of Canada, I take the liberty of letting them know of my experiences in your columns and at your courtesy.

Where am I at? In the classic phrase of the statesman might first be answered, I am at a point where Maine, Quebec and New Brunswick meet on the noble river Tobique, an affluent of the St. John's. But locality and distance from home is better indicated by time than miles so imagine yourself out from Chicago, two days and a half about twelve hundred miles, then we are at the end of the railroad, the telegraph and telephone and all the other encumbrances and annoyances of civilization, then we really begin to travel, about sixty miles by wagon and horseback and foot, and about 120 miles by canoe, sometimes placidly paddling and again shooting the rapids like arrows from a string, but mostly getting along at a fine rate over swift water with a motion as easy as a flying machine. It was rather an experience than a trip and we had to hurry from our camping place to and then just after we had seen its beauty and tasted its sport. For here is the home of the speckled trout, and the wild-creatures of the wood and lake, and river. We set out Aug. 5, forgetting all the political excitement of Chicago, but yet reminded in a strange way of the world's doings for on that day I was wearing round my neck a red bandanna, and saw the tracks of the bull moose. Yes this is the home of the noble animal which seems destined to play a symbolic part in our American history. We saw five of the shy black creatures. Notice I said "shy creatures"—whether the analogy holds let each man say for himself according to his political affiliations. After reaching our second camp, wet, tired and hungry, for it had rained all day and night, we got our first fishing—and such fishing, at a real beaver dam and then were told this was nothing to what was to come. This was found to be no exaggeration when we reached a little sheet of water on the ridges called Blind lake. Here the trout were swarming, and we got them, ones and twos on a cast till we had to forbear or break the limit law. But it would take a book rather than a letter to tell you all we did amid those magnificent lakes and rivers among the sources of the Tobique river.

One day on Long Lake about ten miles long we had a sight of the moose I mentioned above, this is his home and water and is a magnificent region. Here my host Donald Fraser has his great timber limits of about 1800 miles; and these spruce forests grow ready for cutting every 20 years or so. Our paddle down and up this lake will long be remembered. Here also we had a great trout fishing experience at night, when the big ones came out from under the logs of the dam. We camped wet and weary again; but neither hungry nor discouraged and we seemed to be proof against cold.

Our next part of the trip is so different that I must reserve it for another letter if I can possibly get time for it.

Sincerely,
DAVID BEATON.

SUMMER SUGGESTIONS FOR THE MOTHER

Seasonable Advice on the Health of Children in Hot Weather

Mothers should be careful not to overfeed children during hot months. No one requires as much food in summer as they do in cold weather. Serve only the lighter and more easily digested foods, and see that the milk is kept cool and the fruit ripe.

It is quite natural to expect some disturbance, such as constipation, indigestion, or summer diarrhoea, often accompanied by a cold. A mild laxative at bed time will, in most cases, carry off the congested waste from the stomach next morning and by cleaning the bowels restore normal conditions.

Cathartic remedies and purgatives should never be used for children. They are harsh and violent in their action and tend to upset the entire system. The combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and sold by druggists for fifty cents a bottle, is now very generally used to correct stomach and bowel trouble. It is mild, action and tend to upset the entire no drastic drug, or narcotic, but acts naturally and easily, yet most effectively. A larger bottle containing more than twice the quantity is sold for one dollar. If you have never used Syrup Pepsin and would like a free trial bottle, postpaid, write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 406 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

"Oh, up into the country," she said nonchalantly. "He's worn out. They work the life out of him in that horrible bank. He's getting insomnia and thought he'd better take a change now before he got run completely down, so he left this morning and I'm a gay grass widow."

She laughed and drank some water. Her laugh did not sound to her own ears convincing and she was aware that, while Hannah was evidently satisfied by her explanation, Hazel was eying her ponderingly.

"Well, if he's got insomnia," said Hannah, "he'd better take his holiday right now. That's the best thing to do. Take it in the beginning. Before father took ill—"

Here Josh interrupted her, as Hannah's reminiscences of the late contractor's last illness were long and exhaustive.

"Where'd you say he'd gone?" he queried.

"I can't remember the name," Berry answered with skillfully-assumed indifference; "somewhere down toward Santa Cruz and Monterey, some new place. And he may not stay there. If he doesn't like it, he'll just move around from place to place."

"Why didn't you go, too?" said Pearl.

This was the second question Berry had dreaded. Now suddenly she felt her throat contract and her lips quiver. Her usually iron nerve had been shaken by her passion of the night before and the shock of the morning. The unwonted sensations of gloom and apprehension closed in on her again, and this time made her feel weak and fearful.

"I didn't want to. I hate moving around," she said, pushing her chair back from the table. Her voice was a little hoarse, and suddenly feeling the sting of tears under her eyelids she raised her hands to her hat and began to fumble with her veil. "Why should I leave my comfortable flat to go trailing round in a lot of half-built hotels? That sort of thing doesn't appeal to me at all. I like my own cook, and my own bed, and my own bath-tub. I'm more of an old maid than Hannah. Well, so long, people. I must be traveling."

She laid her napkin on the table and jumped up with an assumption of brisk liveliness. She paid no attention to the expostulations of her relatives, but going to the glass arranged her hat and put on her gloves. When she turned back to the table she had regained possession of herself. Her veil was down and through it her cheeks looked unusually flushed, and her dark eyes, with their slanting outer corners, brighter and harder than ever. She hurried through her good-bys on the plea that she had shopping to do, and almost ran out of the house, leaving a trail of perfume and high, artificial laughter behind her.

For the next week she waited for news from Dominick and none came. It was a trying seven days. Added to her embarrassment of mind, the loneliness of the flat was almost unendurable. There was no one to speak to, no one to share her anxieties. Her position was unusually friendless. When her marriage had lifted her from the ranks of working women she had shown so cold a face to her old companions that they had dropped away from her, realizing that she wished to cut all ties with the world of her humble beginnings. New friends had been hard to make. The wives of some of the bank officials, and odd, aspiring applicants for such honors as would accrue from even this remote connection with the august name of Ryan, were all she had found where-with to make a circle and a visiting list.

But she was intimate with none of them and was now too worried to seek the society of mere acquaintances. She ate her solitary meals in oppressive silence, feeling the Chinaman's eyes fixed upon her in ironic disbelief of the story she had told him to account for Dominick's absence. But as slowly as she would, her dinner could not be made to occupy more than twenty minutes, and after that there was the long evening, the interminable evening, to be passed. She was a great reader of newspapers, and when she returned from her afternoon shopping she brought a bundle of evening papers home in her hand. She would read these slowly, at first the important items, then go over them for matters of less moment, and finally scan the advertisements.

At the end of the week she felt that she must find out something, and went to the bank. It was her intention to cash a small check and over this transaction see if the paying teller would vouchsafe any information about Dominick. She pushed the check through the opening and, as the man counted out the money, said glibly:

"Do you hear anything of my wandering husband?"

The teller pushed the little pile of silver and gold through the window toward her and leaning forward, said, with the air of one who intends to have a leisurely moment of talk:

"No, we haven't. Isn't it our place to come to you for that? We were wondering where he'd gone at such a season."

Berry's delicately-gloved fingers made sudden haste to gather up the coins.

"Oh, he's just loafing about," she said as easily as was consistent with the disappointment and alarm that gripped her. "He's just wandering round from place to place. He was getting insomnia and wanted a change of scene."

She snapped the clasp of her purse before the man could ask her further questions, nodded her good-bys, and turned from the window. Her face changed as she emerged on the wide, stone steps that led to the street. It was pinched and pale, two lines drawn between the eyebrows. She descended the steps slowly, the flood of magnificent sunshine having no warming influence upon the chill that had seized upon her. Many of the passing throng of men looked at her—a pretty woman in her modestly-made dress of tan-colored cloth and her close-fitting brown turban with a bunch of white paradise feathers at one side. Under her dotted veil her carefully made-up complexion looked naturally clear and rosy, and her eyes, accentuated by a dark line beneath them, were in attractive contrast to her reddened hair. But she was not thinking of herself or the admiration she evoked, a subject which was generally of overpowering interest. Matters of more poignant moment had crowded all else from her mind.

The next week began and advanced and still no news from Dominick. He had been gone fourteen days, when one evening in her perusal of the paper she saw his name. Her trembling hands pressed the sheet down on the table, and her eyes devoured the printed lines. It was one of the many short despatches that had come from the foothill mining towns on the recent storms in the Sierra. It was headed Rocky Bar and contained a description of the situation at Antelope and the snow-bound colony there. Its chief item of information was that Bill Cannon and his daughter were among the prisoners at Perley's Hotel. A mention was made, only a line or two, of Dominick's walk from Rocky Bar, but it was treated lightly and gave no idea of the real seriousness of that almost fatal excursion.

Berry read the two short paragraphs many times, and her spirits went up like the needle of a thermometer when the quicksilver is grasped in a warm hand. Her relief was intense, careful and relaxing, as the sudden cessation of a pain. Not only was Dominick at last found, but he was found in a place as far removed from his own family and its influences as he was from her. And best of all he was shut up, incarcerated, with Bill Cannon, the Bonanza King. What might not come of it? Berry was not glad of the quarrel, but it seemed a wonderful episode should have sent him into the very arms of the man that she had always wanted him to cultivate and who was the best person in the world for him to impress favorably. If Bill Cannon, who had been a friend of his father's, took a fancy to Dominick, there was no knowing what might happen. In a sudden reaction of relief and hope Berry saw them almost adopted children of the Bonanza King, flouting the Ryans in the pride of their newfound honors.

It made her feel lenient to Dominick, whose indifference and neglect had put her to the torments of the last fortnight. After all, he could not have let her know his whereabouts. The wires were just up, and the rural mail-carrier had not yet been able to effect an entrance into the snow-bound town. Why Dominick had chosen to go in this direction and had attempted an impossible walk in a heavy snowstorm Berry did not know, nor just now care much. A sensation as near remorse and tenderness as she could feel possessed her. Under its softening influence—spurred to generosity and magnanimity by the lifting of the weight of anxiety—she decided that she would write to him. She would write him a letter which would smooth out the difficulties between them and bring him home ready to forgive and be once more his old self, kind, quiet, and indulgent, as he had been in the first year of their marriage.

Then and there, without further waiting, she wrote the letter. It ran as follows:

"My Dear Husband:—I have only just seen in the paper where you are, and, oh, the relief! For two weeks now I have been half crazy, wondering about you, waiting to hear from you. And nothing ever came. Dominick, dear, if you had seen me sitting here alone in the den every evening, thinking and waiting, looking at the clock and listening all the time, even when I was trying to read—listening for your footsteps which never came—you would have felt very sorry for me; even you, who were so angry that you left me without a word. It's just been hell this last two weeks. You may not think by the way I acted that I would have cared, but I did, I do. If I didn't love you would I mind how your people treated me? That's what makes it so hard, because I love you and want you to be happy with me, and it's dreadful for me to see them

They Accepted Their Captivity in a Spirit of Gay Good Humor. always getting in between us, till sometimes lately I have felt they were going to separate us altogether.

"Oh, my dear husband, don't let that happen! Don't let them drive me away from you! If I have been bad-humored and unreasonable, I have had to bear a lot. I am sorry for the past. I am sorry for what I said to you that night, and for turning on the gas and scratching the bed. I am ready to acknowledge that I was wrong, and was mean and hateful. And now you ought to be ready to forgive me and forget it all. Come back to me. Please come back. Don't be angry with me.

I am your wife. You chose me of your own free will. That I loved you so that I forgot honor and public opinion and had no will but yours, you know better than any one else in the world. It isn't every man, Dominick, that gets that kind of love. I gave it then and I've never stopped giving it, though I've often been so put upon and enraged that I've said things I didn't mean and done things I've been ready to kill myself for. Here I am now, waiting for you, longing for you. Come back to me.

"Your loving wife, BERNY."

She read the letter over several times and it pleased her greatly. So anxious was she to have it go as soon as possible that, though it was past ten, she took it out herself and posted it in the letter-box at the corner.

To Loosen Window.
To loosen windows that move hard, melt a tablespoonful of lard and pour a little between the window frame and casing, and on the roller and rope. It works well, says Suburban Life, and is a good thing to know in the spring time, when frames are swollen from being closed all winter.

Neglect a Serious Matter.
Don't neglect yourself, if you have eczema or skin trouble of any kind. Get a bottle of Meritol Eczema Remedy and cure yourself. You will be delighted with this prescription. Reliable Drug Co., sole agents.

Age Limit Placed Too Low.
Think of saying a man of 60 was too old to be a judge! Yet that was New York law in 1777. It was also New York law in 1823 when Chancellor Kent was forced off the bench by it. That he was by no means decrepit physically or mentally at the time is manifest from his noted work, "Commentaries on American Law," which he wrote after his retirement.

Safe Rule.
Any man who writes a letter he wants burned should burn it himself. Atchison Globe.

Dr. C. H. Ellsworth, Dentist, 16 Baldwin St., Rochester, N. Y., says: "Foley Kidney Pills gave him immediate relief and strengthened him wonderfully. 'For some time past I have been bothered with weak kidneys and bladder trouble. Irregular action, pain, and dizzy spells all troubled me. Foley Kidney Pills gave me immediate relief and strengthened me wonderfully. I am pleased to recommend their use.' Foley Kidney Pills are specially prepared for kidney and bladder ailments, and are always effective for rheumatism, backache, weak back and lumbago. Badger Drug Co.
